1. Following the Czechoslovak coup, the USSR has discarded plans for the manufacture of war materiel in Rumania which were formulated by Emil Bodnarus, Minister of National Defense.
2. Rumania will receive materiel from Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. War industries of these latter, which have been standardized on the Soviet model, are already producing sizeable quantities of supplies. At recent conferences with Rumanian Government officials, leading industrialists repeatedly stressed the fact that efforts to increase production are exhausting workers, machinery and raw materials. The low income of the workers is diminished by compulsory contributions to the Communist Party and trade union funds. Tuberculosis among workers is increasing, and their morale declining. Machinery and tools are already badly worn, and efforts to increase output will put many of them out of operation.
3. The Rumanian Government has requested industrialists to submit statistical data in support of their contention that its demands cannot be realized.
